

POLICY STYLE GUIDE

Outlining format:

- For every A, there must be a B; for every 1, there must be 2. Use the following levels:

A.
B.
 1.
 2.
 a)
 b)
 (1)
 (2)
 (a)
 (b) i.
 ii.

- Do NOT use the spacebar or automated bulleting to align paragraphs – use the tab key with the default tab setting at 0.5.”
- Do NOT use automatic formatting or numbering to create outline items.
- Font – 12 point, Times New Roman.
- Margins – set for 0.7” for all sides of the page.
- Bolding and CAPS – used for policy sections (e.g.: REFERENCES).
- Italics – used for foreign words or book titles

Chicago Manual of Style TIPS

Sentence structure:

Must use active voice, not passive.

Example:

Active – The living unit officer directs the offender to stand for count. or The living unit officer must direct the offender to stand for count.

Passive – The offender will be instructed to stand for count.

Must, May, Will:

- “Must” denotes a mandatory duty an individual has to complete. It is a command or a requirement.
- “May” is permissive and indicates discretion is granted to someone.
- “Will” is used only for a future intention or action. It does not create a duty to act.

Numbering:

Spell out the numbers ten and below (one, two). Numbers 11 and above, use numerals (11, 12). When a number begins a sentence, it is always spelled out; if possible, rewrite the sentence so it doesn’t start with a number.

Capitalization:

- If it is not a proper noun (such as a name), do not capitalize it. Proper nouns do not include names of locations, grants, committees, positions, etc., therefore should not be capitalized.
- Full proper names of government entities and official programs are capitalized. Example: “Minnesota Department of Corrections” or “Challenge Incarceration Program”
- Generic terms associated with governmental bodies or roles are lowercase. E.g.: “master control,” “commissioner,” “central office”

List format: If a list is part of a continuous sentence, use:

- Capitalized words at the beginning of each sentence;
- A semi-colon at the end of each sentence;
- The word “and” at the end of the second-to-last sentence; and
- A period at the end of the list.