2. The supervisor, if approving, signs and forwards copies to financial services.
3. The agency chief financial officer or designee reviews the request and, if the request is compliant with all required policies, signs the request and forwards all copies to the warden or the central office budget activity manager. If the request is not in compliance, it must be returned to the supervisor for remedial action.
 - a) If higher-level approval is not needed, the warden/budget activity manager, if approving, signs and returns all copies to financial services.
 - b) If higher-level approval is needed, the warden/budget activity manager, if approving, signs and forwards all copies to the central office financial services. Central office financial services staff review and forward all copies to the assistant/deputy commissioner, who, if approving, signs and returns all copies to financial services. If the approval of the deputy commissioner/commissioner is needed, all copies must be forwarded to him/her. The deputy commissioner/commissioner, if approving, signs and returns all copies to financial services.
4. Routing
 - a) If the request originates at a facility and does not require the approval of the assistant/deputy commissioner, the facility financial services office sends one copy to the requestor, and files the original.
 - b) If the request originates at a facility but requires the approval of the assistant/deputy commissioner, central office financial services retains and files one copy and returns the original to the finance office at the originating facility and must send a copy to the originator by e-mail.
 - c) If the request originates at central office, financial services sends a copy of the approved request to the requesting employee and files the original.

5. On receiving the approved copy of the request, the requesting employee registers for and attends the event if paying directly, or creates an electronic inter-office requisition (EIOR), or otherwise incurs the special expense.
 - a) If the special expense is to be billed directly, the employee must prepare an EIOR with the Request for Approval of Special Expenses form attached to the EIOR, and submit the request to the buyer. On the receipt of the invoice, the employee approves it for payment and sends the invoice to financial services.
 - b) If the employee paid for the special expense, the employee must complete an Employee Expense Report (refer to Policy 104.461, "Employee Travel and Reimbursement of Expenses,") attaches the original receipt and a copy of the Request for Approval of Special Expenses form, and submits it to the supervisor, who approves and forwards it to financial services.
6. On receiving the invoice or expense report, financial services compares the file copy of the request form to the invoice or expense report. If the expenditure matches the approved request and all approvals are proper, financial services inputs the payment to the vendor or employee and files the invoice or expense report, with a copy of the special expense request, in the appropriate paid file. If the approvals are not proper, financial services contacts the employee for resolution of the discrepancy.

E. Approval After the Fact

Requests for approval received after the fact or too late to provide a proper review must include a Purchasing Violation form with a written explanation as to why the request was not provided in a timely manner. Copies of the Purchasing Violation form must be routed per Policy 104.305, "Purchasing Violations."

F. Incurring Obligation or Generating Payment

The approval process of special expense items does not in itself incur an obligation or generate a payment. The requesting employee must place an order with a vendor or register for a conference, and payment must be made on submission of an invoice or Employee Expense Report.

INTERNAL CONTROLS:

- A. Original special expense forms are retained in financial services at the requesting site.
- B. Copies of approved special expense forms are retained with the paid vendor invoice or employee expense form.
